Yes I bought tokens and transferred them to giga-watt.com to be rented out. I did receive rent for a while (tiny amounts) but wasn't convinced the site was working as it should as my tokens weren't always fully rented out even if I chose the lowest rate. The explanations I was given seemed a bit strange.

Finally found out about the bankruptcy when they weren't able to be rented out at all.

I'm not sure whether the timing will matter. If one didn't receive notice of the bar date, then, generally, the notice doesn't apply.

Please tell me: did you buy tokens? And if so, did the tokens ever work? Am asking because a class action for those token holders is pending.

Pam

Hi Ms. Egan,

I hope you don't mind answering a question regarding my claim in the above case.

Upon learning of the bankruptcy, I filed a Proof of Claim REDACTED dated REDACTED Is there anything else I need to do? Was that too late to file in any case?

By the way, I questioned the company before that date as to why the website was not functioning as advertised and was not told about the bankruptcy filing.

Thank you,
